'BAC' bill' gets broad backing

GRANITE CITY — A bill that could greatly affect the way Belleville Area College trustees are elected appears to have broad support within the state legislature and among area law makers.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, would allow voters to elect trustees by subdistricts instead of on an at-large basis. BAC trustees are now elected at-large. The bill has already passed the key House Committee on Higher Education and is expected to be brought up for a full House vote in a few weeks.

Of 12 area legislators, some of whose districts at least partially fall in the seven-county BAC district, six have said they support the idea, one has said he would vote against the measure, with the others not available for comment.

Rep. Monroe Flinn, D-Cahokia, is the only representative contacted who plans to vote against the bill.

"I've got to be opposed to it," Flinn said. "The only thing I'm objecting to is using political subdivisions for BAC."

Flinn, whose district encompasses half of Belleville, decried the bill because, he said, electing trustees by subdistricts would politicize differences between St. Clair and Madison counties.

Madison County supporters of the bill claim the at-large system does not allow adequate representation from many areas of community college districts and allows population centers to

Vadalabene offering Senate sponsorship

GRANITE CITY — Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, pledged to sponsor in the Senate a bill introduced in the House by Rep. Sam Wolf.

The bill would let community college district voters decide if college trustees should be elected by subdistricts or at-large.

The bill is expected to be voted on by the House in a few weeks. If passed, it goes to the Senate.

"I not only support it, I'm looking forward to sponsoring it. I believe the bill is going to pass the House," Vadalabene said.

Vadalabene, a member of the Senate Committee on Higher Education, said Madison County needs representation on the BAC board.

Behind bars

MAYOR VON DEE CRUSE is put into a jail cell by Police Chief Bill Harris in preparation for the American Cancer Society's "Jail & Bail" event. Persons can call the society's office at 793-3005 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. April 24 and 25 to have someone "arrested." Police officers will take the person to a mock jail at the Crossroads Shopping Center. After being fined by a judge, the person will be put in the jail where they will use telephones to call friends who, in turn, will make pledges to the society. When the pledges equal the amount of the fine, the person will be released. Persons wanting to have someone arrested can do so by paying $25 to the American Cancer Society.

More voting problems cited

MADISON — New allegations about voting irregularities in the April 7 aldermanic election have been lodged by outgoing 3rd Ward Alderman Bill Gushleff.

"I did not want to pursue this matter, but in light of the complaints made by my opponent, John Hamm, I feel I must," Gushleff said.

Gushleff contends the allegations made last week by Hamm indicated he deliberately failed to act upon information brought to his attention about voting irregularities at the Venice

Candidate seeks recount in Venice

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — "Yes, definitely I am going to file for a recount," Barbara Harrell said Wednesday.

Harrell was unsuccessful in an April 7 election bid for the 2nd Ward aldermanic post, losing the race by three votes to Silver Franklin. Both are newcomers to the political scene.

"I have an attorney and he is in the process of preparing the petition. All he needed was the date of the vote canvass and that (canvass) was last night," Harrell said Wednesday.

"We have five days after the votes are canvassed to file a discovery motion," she said. The motion to discover probably will be filed today, with the recount process taking place next week, Harrell said.

"Basically, I was in it to win and I was disappointed with the outcome. At first, I thought 'que sera, sera,' but now it comes down to a matter of principle, rather than necessity."

"I talked it over with my husband and he said go for it (recount). I don't know how it will turn out, but it will help to eliminate any questions," she added.

Some questions about possible voting irregularities at the 2nd Precinct in the Venice Recreation Center were asked by Harrell and others late election night.

The next day, Harrell reported one of the 2nd Precinct polling

Closing for land buy extended by Port

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The closing date for selling Army land to the port was extended by the Tri-Cities Regional Port District on Monday.

Porter approval was given months ago to transfer title of 104 acres from the St. Louis Regional Support Center to the port, but several problems have caused the Port District board to delay the closing.

The original closing date was set for April 16 under an agreement with the General Services Administration, the federal agency that would be used in the arm of the government. It is now set for May 18.

There are several problems to be resolved before the closing, said Bob Wydra, port general manager.

The district must first arrange an agreement with the Army to meter water for fire protection of a large warehouse on the land, Wydra said. He said the original agreement with the Army only dealt with "domestic" water lines, with the port agreeing to install new water meters.

At issue is a requirement that meters be installed to meter water that would be used in the event of a fire at the warehouse.

Wydra said the district would have to install at least six such meters at a cost of about $15,000 each. He said a fire would not require more than about $200 worth of water and installing the meters would not be worth the expense. Before the purchase, the Army maintained its own meters.

Wydra said he needed time to work out an agreement for the port to pay the Army a yearly metering fee.

A discrepancy on the size of the land also needs to be resolved, Wydra said. He said a survey performed on the land by the GSA was for 150 acres. The port agreed to purchase 104 acres and the GSA "administratively" changed the land's legal description without re-surveying it. Wydra said the description does not match the actual size.

Wydra said he was "99.9 percent" sure the purchase will go through.

But, because of the problems, the board was unable to garner enough votes to hire contractors for some warehouse improvements.

Board member Kent Holsinger voted against the improvements citing his concern about paying for improvements before the purchase is final.

"You just don't know if you'll come up with something."

—Juanita Crawley

"Everybody's told me, 'Have a recount,'" she said. "You just don't know if you'll come up with something."

Krekovich said he received many telephone calls from people wanting him to seek a recount. "Anything is possible," he said.

Both Crawley and Krekovich are being represented by Granite City attorney Amerik Kachigian. This is the third time Daves has been involved in a recount, he said. He was challenged by defeated aldermanic candidates George Gordon and Don Partney Jr. in two different elections, Daves said.

"It seems like every time I run they do that," he said.

Daves has been successful in both challenges, he said. "It don't bother me," he said. "At least I'll be sure."

Senior funds OK'ed

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Funds for senior citizens were approved at the annual town meeting Tuesday at Township Hall.

The crowd of more than 250 residents passed a resolution providing up to $20,000 in revenue sharing funds to be used for senior services and facilities.

Though revenue sharing payments to the township stopped in October, Township Attorney William Schooley said there are still funds in the bank. These funds will be depleted by the end of the fiscal year, Schooley said. The township received $142,000 in revenue sharing funds annually.

When the revenue-sharing funds run out, Schooley said money for the seniors might come from the corporate placement tax, since senior funds can't come from money raised by a general tax levy.

The seniors need an office, storage space and a showcase for their crafts, said Gertrude Barkley, vice president of the Granite City Council of Senior Citizens. Barkley said she keeps the craft items at her home.

The seniors aren't asking for a lot," she said.

In other action, the electors approved the township bylaws, adopted Supervisor Nellie Hagmann's annual report, and passed a resolution to hire a certified public accountant to audit town accounts.

Township Hall to keep name

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City Township Hall will keep that name.

Residents attending the annual town meeting Tuesday took no action on renaming the hall. Township Attorney William Schooley said they had the authority, by a majority vote, to rename it.

"At the meeting last year, it was suggested the hall be named after Township Supervisor Nellie Hagmann. The crowd had declared the building should be called Township Hall until Schooley could check into the legal feasibility of renaming the building."

FOOT CRAMPS

Many persons mistakenly blame most foot cramps on poor circulation. In most cases, the pain can be traced to a muscle spasm brought on by fatigue from overexertion or poor walking habits, such as a lopsided gait. The fatigue spasm usually comes on unexpectedly, after stretching movement or during sleep. Foot or leg cramps that occur during activity may have a very different cause; they may be a sign of atherosclerosis.

For fast relief from a fatigue-caused spasm, your podiatrist will recommend that you stand on a cold surface or wrap the foot in a cold towel; massaging the foot also helps. Muscle cramps that recur on a regular basis may indicate the need for podiatric treatment.

Rabies clinic in Venice Saturday

VENICE — Residents are being encouraged to take their pet dogs and cats to the annual rabies clinic, scheduled from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. Saturday at the City Garage.

Rabies shots will cost $8 per animal, or a combined vaccination will cost $15, according to veterinarian Allen E. Spector, Creekwood Animal Clinic, who will conduct the Venice clinic.

Ten percent of the fees collected during the one-day clinic will be donated to the city's animal control program, Mayor Tyrone Echois said.

THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH as it looked after completion in 1940. The educational building was added in 1954 on the Grand Avenue side of the facility.

Third Baptist to mark 50 years

The Third Baptist Church, 2601 Grand Ave., will begin its 50th anniversary celebration with a banquet at 6 p.m. Saturday at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave.

Special music will be presented by past choir director Bill Rainwater, Jackie Holder and family, the men's quartet and the reorganized music ensemble known as "Winds".

Dale Clemens will bring a message on "50 Years for Christ." He is from the sister church, Meadow Heights Baptist Church in Collinsville. There also will be a slide presentation and history review given by members of the anniversary committee.

To continue the celebration a tea will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. in the dining room of the church. Following the event the Adult Choir will present a musical entitled "Then Came Sunday" at 6:30 p.m. at the church.

The history of the church begins with a meeting on April 1, 1937, when a group of people assembled in the McKinley School building to worship on Sunday. The meeting was called to order by Jackson Maples and was opened with a song service followed by an address by the Rev. L.L. Anderson.

Subsequently temporary officers were elected to facilitate the operation. They were: moderator, Jackson Maples; clerk, Anna Fossieck; Sunday School superintendent, Lucas Williams; treasurer, Earl Lewis; music chairman, Finis Whittan; pianist, William Thomas; and the committee on arrangements, Carroll Bright, Charles Worster and Harry Miner.

There were 25 teachers who volunteered their services to teach in the Sunday School. Another meeting was held April 18, 1937, when the official church organizational meeting took place with the Rev. Guy Hall, Rev. J. G. Hinkle, Rev. W.E. Whitten, Rev. L.H. Anderson, I.M. Biggs and Roy Cowen formed the council.

Rev. Hinkle was called as the first pastor at a salary of $30 per week. The first ministry of the deaconate included Carroll Bright, Jackson Maples, W.R. Green and W.C. Burgess. Trustees were Harry Miner, Roy Lynn and John Burden.

The charter was closed on May 19, 1937, with 164 members on the roll and a full complement of church and Sunday School organizations functioning.

Within two months, the finance committee was instructed to investigate the availability of church building sites, and the trustees were authorized to incorporate the membership under the name of the Third Baptist Church of Granite City.

On July 21, 1937, it was voted to purchase two lots at 26th Street and Grand Avenue for $400 each plus taxes and by Oct. 6 the transactions were completed. A building was started, with the men of the church doing as much of the work as possible. The church was dedicated on April 21, 1940, on the third anniversary of the church body.

In June 1953 the church voted to build the present educational building on the Grand Avenue side and it was dedicated on July 25, 1954.

The present church staff includes Wallace Gauen, church custodian; Betty Casleton, church secretary; Mary Greenlee, nursery; the Rev. Jim Donahue, pastor; and Jack Jenkins, minister of youth and music.

Those ordained or licensed to preach from the church are Robert Mann, Curtis Emmons, Clyde Martin, William Bowler, William Pascoe, Paul Warford, Harold Harsh Jr., Robert Larner, Raymond Farrar, Charles Blaylock, David T. Richardson, David Cedar, David H. Richardson, Jack Jenkins, Nick Popilchak and Steve Hall.

The public and former members are invited to attend the programs and social events planned for the anniversary celebration; the host pastor said.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes people wish to contest a will because they do not believe it reflects the deceased person's last wishes. A person contesting a will may allege fraud, forgery, intoxication, undue influence, or unsoundness of mind, among others. Allegations that someone exercised undue influence on the person who signed the will or that the person was of unsound mind at the time the will was signed are among the most common reasons for attacking a will. In Illinois, "any interested person" may file a petition in court to contest the validity of a will. However, the petition must be filed in court within six months of the time the will was filed for probate. Persons contesting a will have the right to a trial by jury and to call and examine witnesses to support their position. A recent case will help illustrate the circumstances in which a will was declared invalid.

In a 1980 case, a woman signed a new will just seven months before her death at age 60. She had suffered a breakdown six years earlier and was hospitalized for four months for severe depression. She was on a drug program and under doctor's care until her death. Witnesses testified she was often confused and disoriented and had problems with her memory. The new will revoked a will signed eight years earlier.

One of the beneficiaries under the new will handled all of the business affairs for the 80 year old woman prior to the time she had the new will prepared. He also began to handle her personal affairs as her health worsened. He suggested that she change attorneys to his personal attorney, and she did this. It was his attorney who drafted the new will. Furthermore, he instructed the attorney as to the will provisions and made handwritten insertions in the will.

The Appellate Court held that the woman lacked the necessary mental capacity in making the new will. The Court also held that undue influence had been exerted which overcame her freedom of action and independence. The Court thus invalidated the new will in its entirety. It is clear from this ruling that where special confidence is placed in a person, he must act in good conscience and good faith, and not in his own interest.

Granite City provides basis for novel by former resident

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

Granite City provides the backdrop for Wabash, an unremitting novel by Robert Olen Butler about life in a steel town during the Depression.

Descriptions of the town will be familiar to Granite Cityans, but the brutality and overwhelming sense of doom are fictional. To advance the plot, Robert said he needed a cruel steel mill owner, not the real people who owned the mill in the 1930s, Fred and George Niedringhaus.

"I want to make it clear when I write about people and events in the town that people shouldn't start looking for the real-life correspondence," he said. "I needed a real serious force of darkness running the steel mill in the town that I wanted to write about. If I had written about Granite City, the Niedringhauses were perfectly wonderful people and they weren't the kind of people that I needed to make my plot go."

Robert, 42, of Lake Charles, La., grew up in Granite City and worked at Granite City Steel a couple of summers while in college. His experience, and knowledge gained from friends and relatives who lived here during the 1930s, provide the framework for the novel.

"I mean to tell you he picked everyone's brains around here to put himself in that era — what happened here in 1932," said his mother, Lucille Butler, a retired United Steelworkers employee and wife of Robert O. Butler Sr., retired chairman of the theater department at St. Louis University. Mr. and Mrs. Butler live in Granite City.

"I talked to my relatives who were full of stories, and I researched the Depression in a variety of books, and then I just took what I knew to be the life in that time and imaginatively recreated it," the author said.

The old shanty section in the Granite City area helped Robert create a grim society of unemployed and underemployed workers living in shanties and going hungry.

"Hungry Hollow is what they called the shantytown area (in Granite City area), a kind of Hooverville. Hungry Hollow was the shotgun flats where the Hungarian workers in the mill lived," Robert said.

The mill described in the book is a dreadful place, a kind of purgatory for Jeremy, a main character. But Robert said the mill in Granite City is unlike the one in his book. He spoke fondly of working summers at Granite City Steel.

"He came home the first night proud of himself," Lucille recalled. "He had those heavy old shoes, his safety glasses and a hardhat. He couldn't have been happier. Robert was just fifty."

"I worked all over the mill on the labor gang and got sense impressions — the overwhelming heat and the grit and the finest, the batteries of coke ovens; watching the coke in an almost liquid form flow out of those mills and into the cars and the slag heaps, just whole, sensual experiences of the place," Robert said. "I find something terribly romantic about the mill and the fact that the mill just burns and burns all year round."

Toward the end of the book there is a major confrontation between the Communist-activated mill workers and management. The scene never took place in Granite City, but is based on reality. Robert got information about the 1937 Chicago riot from his mother and Buddy Davis, district director for the United Steelworkers of America, St. Louis.

The Depression was as hard in Granite City as anywhere else, but Robert was born in 1945 and didn't experience the 1930s. He said his memories here are good, including graduating valedictorian at the high school in 1963 and winning the Optimist Club's oratorical contest.

"I love Granite City for what it is. I think Granite City's just terrible the way it is. It's exciting for a writer," Robert said. "I really like the feeling in Granite City. There's something honest, direct, strong and elemental about Granite City."

'Wabash' captures strength of humanity under pressure

'The mass of men lead lives of quiet desperation.'

— Thoreau, from *Walden*By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

Wabash is a story of impotence and despair, a Depression-era nightmare gripping a dirty little steel town run by a faceless business baron.

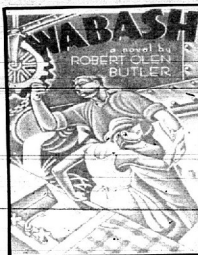

It is a fictionalized slice from the dark side of Granite City's soul.

In the summer heat of June 1932, layoffs at the steel mill across the river from St. Louis have the townsfolk simmering in their tar-paper, shotgun houses.

Communists are agitating the unemployed workers to unite against John J. Hagemeyer, the mill owner and a Congressional candidate who is throwing families out of their shacks so they won't have an address, or a chance to vote against him in the coming election.

Within this fictional framework, Robert Olen Butler introduces the bickering Birney sisters, wrapped in a love-hate relationship that at once tears and binds them.

Deborah Cole, a niece, silently endures their constant bickering but is as powerless to stop it as she is to bring her husband, Jeremy, a steel man, back from the despair that has stifled their love since the death of their infant daughter. The scenes, the odors and visions permeating passages from Butler's intense prose, create a complete literary world, and despite dramatic exaggeration, a literal one instantly familiar to Granite Cityans.

Butler, a former Granite City resident, starts Wabash as a typical day may have once started here: "When Wabash Steel had orders and there was work, the fine, black soot from the mill lay on the porch steps each morning like an overnight snow."

The main characters are vibrant, urgent, unwilling to submit to the oppressiveness of the mill, their poverty, or Hagemeyer. They fight, are scared within and without, and endure. When no hope remains, when pathetic suicides and overwhelming impotence wrap Jeremy in an aching void, in his quiet wrath he confides, "I'm going to kill someone."

Deborah sets out to stop her husband's plan for murder and self-destruction, tries to stop the inevitable encounter at a political rally for Hagemeyer and President Herbert Hoover, and her desperate, answerless love carries her to the ultimate confrontation — between Jeremy and Hagemeyer, and Jeremy and herself.

Wabash is not a book that should be read because it reflects images of life as it was in Granite City, but because it makes an enduring statement about hardship and human spirit that few have ever so well expressed.

Wabash is a literary gem, polished and sparkling with molten imagery. It ranks beside the novels of John Steinbeck, but will be remembered as a masterpiece in its own right.

Issues confronting doctors include AIDS, contraceptives

High school contraceptive clinics, AIDS, Medicare cutbacks and guidelines for withdrawing life support are some of the thornier issues confronting Illinois physicians as they meet this year to hammer out decisions on state and federal health policy.

Almost 400 physician delegates from every corner of the state will gather April 10-12 to debate and decide official policy of the Illinois State Medical Society (ISMS). The three-day House of Delegates meeting takes place at the Westin O'Hare Hotel, Rosemont.

Forty-eight resolutions are slated to come before the House for consideration, many devoted to key public health issues for Illinois patients. Expected to generate controversy is a proposal advocating ISMS support for "existing and proposed adolescent and school-based clinics that provide health and sex education and access to health care and contraceptive methods."

Offered by Illinois medical students, the resolution also suggests that ISMS promote legislation on the development and sustenance of adolescent and school-based clinics.

Doctors will tackle the ethical question of withdrawing or withholding life support for terminally ill patients.

The proposed resolution allows a physician, with informed consent, "to do what is medically necessary to alleviate severe pain, or to cease or omit treatment to permit a terminally ill patient, whose death is imminent, to die."

The resolution forbids physicians from "taking 'affirmative action' to cause death. This follows similar deliberations by the American Medical Association at its 1986 annual meeting.

Several more resolutions address Medicare and its "unabated cost-cutting drive." The resolutions reflect Illinois doctors' concerns about quality of care for Medicare patients in the wake of even more government-proposed cost cuts.

One resolution supports transfer of elderly health insurance to the private sector and suggests that Medicare benefits "be limited to subsidizing the cost of health insurance for the elderly based on their ability to pay."

Another resolution warns against extension of diagnostic-related groups (DRGs) to doctors. Used as a basis for Medicare reimbursement, hospitals, DRGs have been suggested for compensating pathologists, anesthesiologists and radiologists.

Doctors fear that the extension of DRGs would compromise their "patient advocacy role, by creating an economic disincentive to conduct appropriate tests and treatment for elderly patients."

Local man saved by seat belt

GRANITE CITY — It's not the type of club anyone would try to join. But considering the alternatives, the "Saved by the Belt" club is one whose members are glad they qualified for admittance.

The members are traffic accident survivors, people who owe their lives to wearing a seat belt.

Among its most notable members are entertainers Patrick Duffy, Adrienne Barbeau, Barbara Mandrell and Billy Joel, boxer Sugar Ray Leonard, race car driver Al Unser and New York Gov. Mario Cuomo.

Maybe not as well-known, but just as fortunate, is Granite City resident Lloyd Wilson. Wilson was recently welcomed to the club by Police Chief Bill Harris for the Illinois Coalition for Safety Belt Use.

On Feb. 23, 1985, Wilson, a letter carrier, was making a left turn into a driveway when his auto was struck in the rear by a truck. His auto overturned and landed in a water-filled ditch. Wilson was wearing his seat belt at the time and never lost consciousness.

He was able to free himself and was pulled from the wreckage. Wilson credits the seat belt with having saved his life.

"I believe everyone should buckle up," he said. "You'll be glad you did."

CAR DAMAGED BY BALL BAT
Ron Hillis, 1209 Meridian Ave., said the driver of a red Firebird auto ran him off the road at West 20th Street and Rock Road at 11:35 p.m. April 10. A man jumped out of the vehicle and struck Hillis' auto with a baseball bat, denting the fender and driver's door, the victim said. Hillis said he'd had problems with the same man earlier.

Scholarships, loans for many

With the increasing concern of Illinois students and parents as to how higher education can be financed, figures released today by the Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC) offer some encouragement.

The ISSC is the state agency responsible for administering 13 financial assistance programs for students continuing their education.

During the state fiscal year ending June 30, 1986, more than a half-billion dollars were awarded to participants in the ISSC-administered programs. In this time period, a quarter-million grants, scholarships and loans were disbursed.

The largest program, from both the number of persons served and the dollars involved, was the Illinois Guaranteed Loan Program. Over $370 million was guaranteed to 156,000 students, with the average loan totaling $2,365.

The Monetary Award Program (MAP), second largest grant program in the U.S., awarded $121 million to 103,000 Illinois students. The average grant was $1,180.

Other programs and amounts awarded are:

- Parent Loans (PLUS), $8.7 million to 3,200 parents.
- Auxiliary Loans (ALAS), $8.4 million to 3,000 students.
- Merit Recognition Scholarship (MRS), $2.3 million to 4,500 students.
- National Guard/Naval Militia, $1.3 million to 2,200 students.
- Student-to-Student Grant, $350,000 to 1,900 students.
- Policeman/Fireman, $37,000 to 24 students.
- Correctional Workers, $4,600 to 1 student.

The ISSC also administers the State Scholar Program, the new Congressional Teacher Scholarship, the Illinois Veteran Grant program, and the Illinois Designated Account Purchase Program (the ISSC's secondary market for student loans).

Coolidge students elect officers

Coolidge Junior High School held an election of student council officers.

Faculty advisor Norma Lesko instructed students in the nomination and election process.

The new student officers at Coolidge are: Andy Jenkins, president; Darla Mayhall, vice president; Lori Lignoul, secretary; and Jennifer Baker, treasurer. The students will assume their offices at an oath ceremony which will be held in early September.

Students circulated nominating petitions. Those having the required number of signatures were placed on the ballot and the campaign then began.

Students formed campaign committees that discussed strategy and made campaign literature and signs. Candidates gave campaign speeches during each of the lunch periods. The students voted during homeroom periods by marking candidate numbers on cards simulating the county punch card system.

Coolidge Principal Jim Jeffries said the candidates ran a responsible campaign and the student body was enthusiastic about the election while still going about their business of learning. Lesko said she was pleased the candidates removed all campaign literature the day after the voting.

Lignoul and Mayhall will go to the Illinois Association of Junior High Student Councils leadership camp to be held at Lake Bloomington from June 28 to July 4. Jenkins and Baker will attend the Illinois Association of Junior High Student Councils convention in Waterloo.

The contest is run on a computer. Scoring and timekeeping are also handled by a computer program. The contest includes 200 multiple-choice questions covering every phase of academia.

Topics range from literature to math to world history to useless trivia and beyond. The team gets two, 60-second chances to answer the question. Entrants may use only paper and pencils during the competition.

At the end of two hours, scores are totaled and the team sponsor phones in the test results. Within 24 hours, the national scores will be available. The creators, Academic Hall-mark of Durango, Colo., have conducted the Knowledge Master Open for four years, running two contests a year, spring and fall. Every year, the number of participating schools increases. The students have practiced with questions from a previous year's contest.

GENERIC DRUGS

Laws enacted in some states allow the pharmacist to substitute a "generic equivalent" drug under certain conditions, when such a similar drug is available. This means that your pharmacist may dispense an identical drug in terms of quality and active chemical composition, but manufactured by another pharmaceutical company at considerable savings to you, the patient. This is an effective way to reduce the cost of certain prescription drugs, and we encourage you to request your physician and pharmacist to use "generic" drugs whenever possible.

How's Your Hearing?

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltrone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltrone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. For your free sample send your name, address, and phone number today to: Department 75254, Beltrone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

HAVE YOU EVER FELT SO ALONE YOU COULD JUST DIE?

When things are going badly, loneliness really hurts. Not having someone to turn to, someone to confide in, is the worst kind of heartache. Jesus Christ experienced the ultimate loneliness. With all the world's sin — yours and mine included — bearing down on Him — there was no one to share His sorrow. From the cross He cried out "My God, why have you forsaken me?" That question cries out for an answer. Come this Sunday and find the meaning.

•Voting

Township Precinct 7 polling place.

"I didn't sit on anything," Gushieff said. "I was running my own election."

"I found out the same time he (Hamm) did. Did you know John Hamm was in the poll when the voting occurred? Why didn't he tell the judges? Why didn't he challenge it then?"

"I was not in the poll," Hamm said. "I was not aware that (the person) question was in the poll until my workers told me outside on the corner."

The allegations being made by Gushieff involve what he believes was illegal voting in Venice Precinct 8, which he told Hamm about earlier in the day on April 7.

"Why didn't he challenge that voting place he wanted me to be later in the day?" Gushieff said. "When I told him about the illegal voting, he just turned his head."

Gushieff contends that Pam Dymas, a former city resident, voted in Venice Precinct 8 at the Madison Memorial Center on Tuesday.

"He came up to me on the corner (outside the Venice Precinct 7) and told me that Pam Dymas had voted in Precinct 8, but that she had been challenged by the poll judges."

"If they challenged the vote outside, I saw no reason to come to do anything. The judges had control over the poll."

When Dymas was asked about the allegations she said that she did vote Tuesday in Madison.

"I felt I was entitled to vote," Dymas said. "That's where I lived for the last 12 years and where I intend to move back to."

Dymas' home at 1720 Edwardsville Road was damaged by a fire in October of last year, and she said her current residence is temporary.

"I own a house at 1723 Edwardsville Road, and the street from my other house, and I intend to either move into that house or another place in Madison," Dymas said.

Dymas is living in an unincorporated area of Madison County near Pontoon Beach while she waits for the house at 1723 Edwardsville Road to be vacated by the people renting the property.

She said the couple has just had a baby and she is giving them time to buy another house.

Dymas' contention she was challenged by a poll judge when she entered the polling place to vote then obtained an Affidavit of Challenged Voter, which required the signatures of two registered voters of that precinct.

City Clerk Bill Weidner and 1st Ward Alderman Jim Hillmer signed the affidavit for her, but neither official lives in Venice Precinct 8.

Both said they signed the affidavit for Dymas, but were unaware that they had to be from the same precinct.

"I didn't know that you had to be from the same precinct," Weidner said.

When the residency requirement was brought to the attention of the city clerk, Weidner said, "I thought you just had to be a resident of the city."

Weidner also said that as far as he knew Dymas still lived at her old address on Edwardsville Road.

The house at 1720 Edwardsville Road has been sold by Dymas and is occupied by a city employee.

The affidavit that Weidner and Hillmer signed does state the witnesses do have to be residents of the precinct the voter is being challenged in.

Cal Hudson, associate director of the Illinois State Board of Elections, said that if a registered voter is displaced from their residence by a fire or other similar problem and "intended to return to the exact location" the person could come back to the precinct and vote.

Mr. and Mrs. James Aldridge, 750 Guth St., honored their daughter-in-law, Judy Aldridge, with a birthday party. She celebrated her 22nd birthday April 6 in the hospital.

The hostess were the honoree's husband, James T. Aldridge and baby, Timothy, the great-grandchildren, Mrs. Betty Aldridge, and Paula Young and Elizabeth Fahner. Later, the honoree's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David (Sue) Acocks and children, Terry, Codi and Angela, arrived from Bethalto. A dinner was served followed by ice cream and cake.

Lee Presley, 612 Barkley Ave., was honored with a surprise birthday party April 3 in the home of his son-in-law and daughter, the Rev. and Mrs. Jim (Carol) McNeely, in St. Peters, Mo.

Surprise guests were the honoree's son, David Presley and wife, Brenda, and Larry's friend, Brenda. Also there were his grandson, David Presley Jr. and wife, Tracy, and their daughter, Stephanie, all of Clarksville, Tenn. Others present were the honoree's wife, Velma, and Shelly Downs, Stan and Marilyn Rice and daughter, Heather, Robert and Robyn Johnson and Walter Johnson.

D-Edwardsville, and Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlinville.

Sen. Kenneth Hall, D-East St. Louis, whose St. Clair County district includes BAC's district, said he "could be supportive of it. It sounds good," but declined to say how he would vote if the bill moves to the Senate. After repeated attempts, Rep. Wyveter Young, D-East St. Louis, could not be reached for comment.

Demuzio said his district, which includes four community college districts including BAC, would benefit from the bill.

On the state level, the bill is co-sponsored by seven Democrats and four Republicans.

"It's a pretty good bi-partisan co-sponsorship," said Gary LaPaille, chief of staff for Speaker of the House Michael Madigan, D-Chicago. "I would see smooth sailing."

Madigan will not actively support the bill on the House floor because, LaPaille said, there does not appear to be much opposition forming.

If Sam needed the assistance of Madigan would probably help," LaPaille said.

Other area legislators supporting the bill are House Majority Leader Rep. Jim Maize, D-Alton; Sen. Sam Vadalabene,

Some Easter symbols rooted in pagan past

Christian preachers around the world on Easter Sunday once again will try to transform the mystery and meaning of Easter into understandable words and a workable pattern for clock and calendar living. The chances are they will fail.

But they are in good company. For 20 centuries preachers and missionaries have proclaimed this mighty act of God — raising Jesus from death — and yet Christianity is still a minority faith in the world. Even devout Christians seldom claim they grasp the total meaning and significance of the event remembered at Easter.

The inadequacy of words drives human effort to the use of symbols. But the symbols of Easter do not always enlighten. Consider the rabbit. The bunny has not always been a symbol of Easter. In truth, the rabbit represents an accommodation of Christianity for the hordes of pagans that were brought into the church by zealous missionaries.

Before their introduction to Christianity and the central holiday of Easter, many converts belonged to fertility cults that greeted the arrival of spring and the accompanying signs of new life with worship services. For them, reproduction was not only a divine blessing, but a holy obligation. Thus, the prolific rabbit was a model and symbol of a right relationship with God and others.

Giving up such an emphasis was not an easy lesson for new Christians to learn. So Christianity made it easier. The new converts were allowed to keep the old symbols of a springtime holy day, but new Christian interpretations had to be applied. Today, fertility cults have disappeared as religious groups among civilized societies. Although their symbols remain, the meanings have changed.

Eggs, too, were popular symbols for fertility worshippers. For the same reason, eggs were also accepted as Easter symbols by the church to ease the way for converts.

Lilies, butterflies and new clothes are traditions and symbols that have become part of Easter observances. The message of each is the same: the new has arrived; the old has passed away. Worn-out clothes have been replaced by the new. What seemed to be lifeless is not only alive but beautiful.

The ugly caterpillar reaches its intended beauty following burial in a cocoon, and then is raised with a new body. Anyone who has watched "surprise" lilies grow knows how quickly and completely an apparently dead stalk can become a large, beautiful flower. The transformation is miraculous, just like the Resurrection.

New clothes inspire hope and confidence, have a power to make their wearers feel better about himself, make new beginnings easier and help overcome disappointment.

In an ancient mythological story, the phoenix is a bird that dies, is consumed by fire and springs to new life from its ashes. Its similarity with the Resurrection makes the phoenix an obvious symbol for the mystery of the Resurrection.

Life is described in funeral liturgies as a pilgrimage from "ashes to ashes, dust to dust." Resurrected life extends the pilgrimage from ashes to ashes to a new life that is different in content and is eternal.

THE RISEN SON APPEARED.

Have you ever groped through the darkness? It is an unpleasant, unsettling experience. Times of personal struggle are the same way. The bigger the problems become, the darker it gets. In loneliness we try to find answers, we reach desperately for some switch that will illuminate our lives. At a crucial point in history 2500 years ago it seemed things couldn't get any darker. A black cloud of hatred and loneliness enveloped man. Then came the morning... and the Risen Son appeared.

County may get 9th circuit judge

SPRINGFIELD — State legislation introduced last week would create both an additional Madison County circuit judge position and two more elected 5th Appellate Court justices.

The additional spots on the bench would be authorized under bills sponsored by Rep. John Cullerton, D-Chicago, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, majority leader, said the legislation to expand the number of elected justices to six in the 5th Appellate Court was introduced at the request of St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello. Currently there are four justices elected in the sprawling district, which includes Madison County along with approximately the southern third of the state. A fifth justice serves by appointment of the Supreme Court.

McPike said he did not know the origin of the request for an additional circuit judge position in the 5th circuit, which includes Madison and Bond counties. The circuit now has eight elected judges — four chosen at large, three who must be residents of Madison County and one from Bond.

The Cullerton bill would add another Madison County resident judge as well as another resident St. Clair County judge in the 20th Judicial Circuit.

Quad Cities at crossroads

Civic leaders in the Quad City Area stand at a crossroads. They don't have to remember election promises. Hands shaken during door-to-door marches through wards don't have to be touched again for four years. Lack-luster economic growth and employment rates can be ignored when pay increases for aldermen and city employees are reviewed, and when businesses need help to start or expand.

The opposite is, fortunately, also true. Campaign promises can be kept, ward meetings can be held to keep voters informed, economic growth and employment can be encouraged.

The Quad City Area is at a crossroads. We can ignore potential, or make it reality.

Granite City's downtown needs help, and, unlike in the past two decades, a revitalization plan is moving forward. There are risks, but the greatest threat is inaction. Further degeneration of our once-thriving business district cannot be tolerated. Aldermen stand at the crossroads: Push the plan and the hope of progress, or condemn it and downtown.

Pontoon Beach is pursuing an exciting annexation policy, and though it hasn't gotten everything it wanted and has faced competition from Granite City, it's growing. The community's challenge is how to develop the added land. The village has limited financial resources to assist developers. It should also examine whether adding one patrolman is enough for a village that's about doubled in size in two years.

Concern for not only the village but the entire area should be considered by board members. Mayor Von Dec Cruse asked village officials to merge Granite City and Pontoon Beach. The city has the financial base to help developers that Pontoon Beach lacks, but Pontoon Beach has prime business land Granite City lacks.

Together, they could help each other. Apart, they remain in competition. The communities, in deciding to work together or apart, are at a crossroads.

Madison's aldermen might consider progress toward Interstate 55/70. The water line extension to the truck stop will help. Land near the interstate could be further developed, possibly for businesses, a hotel or homes. The Illinois 203 and I-55/70 intersection is near St. Louis. A quick jaunt downtown from the intersection would be a welcome change for those making the much longer trek from St. Louis County. The city should encourage property owners to develop the land along Illinois 203. A part of Madison's future lies at the Illinois 203 and I-55/70 crossroads.

Venice offers a challenge to its aldermen. Gang symbols scar the walls of housing projects and, though police deny gang-related problems, gangs exist. Aldermen must strongly discourage the presence of gangs and risk problems evident in East St. Louis. A positive step in this direction is the Neighborhood Watch program and hopefully aldermen will encourage continued support. So long as gangs exist in Venice, the community's future will be marred with a question mark.

Another type of development is also needed in Venice: business development. The city can make itself attractive by strictly enforcing housing codes and effectively dealing with vacant buildings. Perhaps a helpful state legislator could work to initiate a hefty tax on vacant buildings to force owners to use or demolish them. The cleaner the city, the more attractive it will be, which makes the April 25 "Stash-Trash" cleanup program by area Boy and Girl scouts all the more valuable in Venice.

In the Quad City Area, elected officials call the shots. Progress won't happen unless they're willing to fight for it against many other communities making similar efforts. Progress can't happen if obstacles are thrown in the way each time business leaders plan a development.

The Quad Cities can take a half-hearted, haphazard road or a straight and narrow path to progress. At these crossroads our leaders stand and — for good or ill — they must chart our course.

Spring brings road work

In spring, young men's thoughts turn to love and highway crews begin reaving up their big paving machines.

Rapid progress continues to be made toward completing Interstate 255 in Metro East, and many other projects are proceeding. To help pay for such work, Missourians have just increased their gasoline tax from 7 to 11 cents per gallon, and Illinois legislators are considering increasing this state's tax from 13 cents to 18, 19.5, 20.5, 21.5 and 22.5 cents over the next five years.

The season and the backlog of work eloquently explain why so many Republicans helped Democrats override the Republican president's highway bill veto. The two Republican senators from Missouri said jointly, "Reducing the federal budget is the top national priority, but holding up highway funds would only create the illusion of budget austerity."

"Every time a motorist buys gasoline, he or she pays into the Highway Trust Fund to finance road improvements, this cannot be spent for any other purpose. The previous law expired in October, delaying thousands of contract lettings. We cannot let another construction season go by without passage of a bill. We must put these dollars to work immediately."

Koepke salute is deserved

The Leadership Council of Southwestern Illinois has just honored Dr. Robert L. Koepke, a friend of the Quad City Area and all of Metro East.

A faculty member at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, he is professor of geography and associate director of the Regional Research and Development Service.

Koepke was saluted at the annual Leadership Council dinner "for his unique commitment to promoting economic development in the region, and for his efforts to unite local governments, labor organizations, corporate management and educational institutions in work to improve Southwestern Illinois' quality of life."

4th Ward race Teachers' pets didn't get honor, reader states

To the editor:

I have been a staunch supporter of the Journal and Press-Record since you took over (as) new management. I have on several occasions told Mr. (Jack) Ventimiglia how much I enjoyed reading the new paper.

I was very disappointed with some of the things I have been reading before and after the election. I read in our paper of the people your paper was endorsing for the city council's coming election. That was fine, but you also said you weren't endorsing anyone for 4th Ward. Your paper on April 5 had a full page article about the 4th Ward candidates. I have seen a lot of elections of federal, state and local officials. I have never seen any candidate get a full page in the Press-Record. In questions asked seemed to me to be in favor of one candidate. But I realize that this newspaper. There were a lot of wards with candidates running and they didn't get a full page.

On April 9, I again opened my Press-Record and on the front page read an article about how Mr. Partney's campaign was covered (and how even twice went past Mr. Hewlett's house bombing. I think that was really very childish.

I am not through yet. The cartoon was the clincher. I think you were trying to discredit Tom Hewlett even after the election was over. You know if I ever need to be endorsed by anyone I would rather put my faith in the Easter Bunny or Santa Claus than in Mr. Partney or the Press-Record. If your paper doesn't want to endorse anyone, at least have the guts to come out and say so instead of the tactic your paper used against Tom Hewlett.

This is only my opinion, but I think the city lost one of the finest aldermen we had. I hope other people of the 4th Ward also let your paper know how they feel.

Kennerly fine, helpful person

To the editor:

On your article on the discipline action taken by Mr. Kennerly, I know nothing of the discipline taken against Mr. Kennerly. My son transferred from a small private school to Granite City High School his senior year. Mr. Kennerly and the high school faculty have helped my son's transfer to be accommodated for all concerned. I have always found Mr. Kennerly responding to my inquiries about my son facilitated with great concern and fairness.

ELLEN ALINE WILSON

To the editor:

I would like to respond to the article in the April 18 issue of the Granite City Journal from the Graduate. I understand your complaint but there is no way that everyone who deserves recognition can be recognized in a class of this size.

I would like to point out that just because you are a pom-pom or cheer leader doesn't mean you are not in clubs or other organizations. It also seems to me that pom-poms and cheerleaders put in many hours of hard work and receive little recognition.

As for being teachers' children, the girls and boys chosen are among the most active in the school. All of us have earned our recognition on our own and not because our parents work in this district. For example, I have been a varsity letter winner in cross-country for three years, basketball for one year, track for one year and soccer for one year. I have also been in varsity club for four years, science club for one year, All-M Music Honor Society for three years and am the president of this club. I am also president of the band letterman club of which I've been a member for three years, so as you can see I am not just a teacher's kid, but a very active member of this senior class. Along with my many activities, I have a 4.0 grade point average.

I would personally like to thank all the teachers for giving us this honor and privilege.

Emotions up at election

Emotions run high during election time, and they peak on election night.

Last week's election was no different.

The feeling Tuesday night at Township Hall was like Grand Central Station during a holiday. Anxious candidates and supporters were watching and waiting for City Clerk Bob Stevens to announce precinct vote totals, while Deputy Clerk Charlotte Shure wrote them on a large chart.

Some candidates stayed close to the chart, while others just walked around and waited for friends and supporters to tell them the vote totals. Some had pieces of paper scribbled with precinct totals crunched in the palm of their hands.

Some stepped outside for a breath of fresh air. The heat generated by the more than 150 people gathered at the hall was too much for some.

One woman cried, saying her candidate didn't have chance. Others applauded when it was announced their candidate won.

Some candidates didn't go to the hall to hear the results. They stayed at their homes or at their campaign parties waiting for friends or family members to phone with the latest results.

It was an evening of emotions. For me, it was my first time I spent election evening at the Township Hall. And like the others, it was somewhat emotional for me.

I traced from candidate to candidate, some winners and some losers, getting their reaction. Some were happy, some were not.

For some candidates, the win was the end of a tough campaign, and as 3rd Ward Alderman Paul Fisk said, it was a "relief." For others, like Superintendent of Streets Mac Warfield, it was just a matter of waiting for the votes to come in. The long weeks of campaigning finally came to an end.

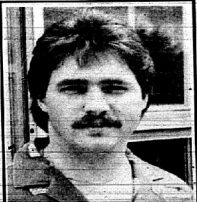

Covering the Granite City Council for 14 months and seeing the aldermen, clerk, mayor and other officials in action, I've given some consideration about one day running for public office.

It's not that I don't enjoy being a newspaper reporter, but I've always found politics interesting. Besides, who would put a sign in their yard that says "Bagby for editor"?

Was trade for Pena a good one?

Do you think the trade by the St. Louis Cardinals for Pittsburgh Pirates catcher Tony Pena, in exchange for outfielder Andy Van Slyke, catcher Mike Lavalliere and minor league pitcher Mike Dunne, was good for the team and its chances to get back in pennant contention?

Jim Fuhrman, Granite City

"Yes, because we needed to get somebody in there to hit the ball. Getting rid of Andy Van 'Strike-Out' (Slyke) was good. And we needed a catcher, so getting Pena was good, too."

Gary Aaron, Granite City

"Yes, because Pena is a good ball player. He's proven it in the past and he's a good catcher. Van Slyke had three or four years to prove himself and all that's he's proven is that he is consistently inconsistent."

Fred Bellville, Granite City

"It looks like a pretty good trade. I think he'll (Van Slyke) get a better chance to play more regularly in Pittsburgh. They (the Cardinals) needed a good catcher. He'll (Pena) do a good job for them after he heats."

'Year of the Tomato' garden observance salutes the king

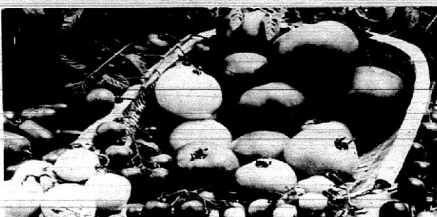

The tomato for at least 15 years has reigned as the most popular vegetable in home gardens. In an educational promotion, the National Garden Bureau draws attention to all the outstanding qualities that earned it the No. 1 place by celebrating 1987 as the "Year of the Tomato."

Those qualities include: delicious taste, undoubtedly the first and foremost reason for its popularity; ease of growing; and being a useful, nutritious fruit. In addition, this diverse species offers gardeners many choices in plant habits: tomato sizes, shapes and colors; and multiple disease resistances for increased harvest.

To encourage even more people to discover the many rewards of tomato gardening, the bureau offers some growing tips:

Soil Preparation: To start with, good drainage is needed. A balanced garden fertilizer plus limestone for calcium can be incorporated when tilling the soil. Then, after transplanting tomato plants, additions of phosphorus-rich sources will assist the development of strong root systems and improve fruit yield. Three good sources of phosphorus include bone meal, phosphate rock and soft phosphate. During the growing season, the incorporation of organic matter into the planting beds will greatly improve the moisture-holding capacity of coarse soils while improving the drainage in very fine, heavy soils.

Planting: Tomatoes are among the easiest plants a person can grow. They withstand some abuse or neglect and still produce a decent crop. Tomatoes need as much light as possible and will do best if grown in full sun.

The traditional method of planting tomatoes is to dig a deep vertical hole and place the plant in it. It is also a good method for planting "stretched" tomatoes. The deeply buried stem has a head start on developing a deep root system. Because of its relatively deep root system, vertically planted tomatoes can better withstand extremes of temperatures or rainfall.

Staking and Caging: Staking and caging are the two most common methods used for supporting tomato plants. Both methods work equally well, but choose a method that corresponds to plant growth determinate or indeterminate. It is best to install either method at the same time plants are placed in the ground.

Wire cages are the easiest to use for determinate or semi-determinate plants. The plant will grow through the holes on its own. The cages also tend to push the foliage together in the center, providing good leaf coverage to prevent sunscald. Cages can be purchased in many sizes, or made at home from concrete reinforcing wire. This second method is given more stability by weaving two or three stakes in and out of the mesh and driving them into the ground at least 1 foot deep.

Stakes are easily made from a wide assortment of materials: 2-by-2-inch wooden poles; bamboo stakes; or metal pipes and rods. Stakes should be between 5 and 7 feet for use with indeterminate varieties. Sink the poles at least 1 foot into the ground for good stability. Do not put them any closer than 4 inches from the plant. Pruning and tying the new growth to the stake is important when growing indeterminate plants.

Strips of old cloth are popular tie materials. They should be tied around the young growth to the stake in a figure 8 pattern. It is common practice when staking or caging plants to remove the branches and leaves below the first blossoms. This is done because no fruit will be produced on these branches and it provides better air-ventilation at the base of the plant.

Pruning: A primary reason for pruning indeterminate plants is to harvest larger tomatoes. This is accomplished at the expense of producing more, yet smaller tomatoes. Only indeterminate varieties should be pruned; determinate varieties should not be pruned as it would reduce both size and quantity of tomatoes. Generally one to three main growing stems are allowed to develop.

Pruning should be done by pinching out suckers as they develop. The National Garden Bureau defines suckers as the shoots that develop in the "U" between main stem and a branch. Prune all small shoots that develop in the "U." If left, these shoots will become long growing stems that reduce tomato size. Pruning is best done by hand, pinching them between one's fingers. Knives or pruning shears can transmit diseases from one plant to another as a new cut is made.

Pre-paid tuition bill passes panel

Parents will be able to pre-pay tuition at a reduced rate years before their child becomes college age, under a bill approved by the House Higher Education Committee, according to State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City. The Illinois Secure Trust Act allows parents to make a one-time contribution or a series of installments, anytime, after the birth of their child, said Wolf, who co-sponsored the bill. This contribution then guarantees the child four years of college at any state university with no additional cost for tuition, providing they meet normal entrance requirements. "There is a growing gap in state and federal college assistance programs," said Wolf. "The average middle-income family in many cases slips through this gap, although these families can't qualify for need-based assistance, they still find it difficult to pay rising tuition costs."

Students to fight cancer

Quad-City junior high and high school students will be taking to the streets on behalf of the American Cancer Society on Sunday, April 26, between 2 and 4 p.m.

Students will be calling on homes in their neighborhoods to distribute an informative pamphlet on mammography and to solicit donations to the Cancer Society.

The door-to-door campaign is an annual drive that takes place during April throughout the United States. Its primary purpose is to inform the public of the latest advances in the fight against cancer and to seek funds to help find a cure for this disease.

Students participating represent the student councils from Venice and Granite City high schools, Madison Middle School, Coolidge and Grigsby junior high schools in Granite City, and the National Honor Society from Granite City High School.

On Sunday, April 26, area churches are being asked to ring their bells at 2 p.m. to remind all residents that the door-to-door campaign has begun. People may expect pairs of students at their doors between 2 and 4 p.m. At the conclusion of the drive, all participants will return to Coolidge Junior High School for a final tallying of contributions, awards to participating groups, and refreshments.

Intern plan for Hispanic seniors

For the second year, McDonald's restaurants are sponsoring summer internship opportunities for graduating Hispanic high school seniors interested in working at the Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute in Washington. The application deadline is April 24.

The caucus will select 12 highly motivated seniors with leadership abilities and an interest in public service and community affairs. Applications for the internship are available from the Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute Inc., 504 C St. NE, Washington, D.C. 20002, or 1-202-543-1771.

Sunrise service at park

The annual community Easter sunrise service will again be held under the shelter of Granite City's Wilson Park Ice Rink at 6 a.m. on April 19.

Guest speaker will be Professor Rex Spicer of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, a new faculty member from Texas and former parish pastor.

Leading the assembly in worship will be the Rev. Samuel Boda of St. John Lutheran Church, a brass ensemble, under the direction of John T. Severine Sr., will open with fanfares and will accompany the singing of familiar hymns.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served following the service, which is annually sponsored by the local Lutheran churches.

The half-hour service will also be broadcast live on WGN-AM (920).

The non-sectarian sunrise service is open to the general public, according to a church spokesman. The park district welcomes the community to this annual event and a spokesman advised: "Dress warmly. The service will proceed regardless of the weather."

New officers

THE AGAPE Fellowship met March 24 to elect new officers. Elected were the Rev. Mark Maynard, left, of Calvary Pentecostal Church as president, the Rev. Ron Johnson, right, of Full Gospel Fellowship as vice president and the Rev. Doyle Ankrom, standing of Trinity Tabernacle, Madison, as secretary-treasurer. Agape is a fellowship of local pastors and ministers who meet monthly to discuss and pray for the needs of the area. Agape meets the fourth Tuesday of each month at 8:30 a.m. at the Grand Cafe, 1413 20th St. Special guests, including missionaries and public officials, have been featured at the meetings.

Holy Week services to include dialogue

Good Friday services at St. John Lutheran Church, 2001 St. Clair Ave., will feature a closing "dialogue presentation" in the series called "Cross Examinations." Participating in the dialogue will be Seminarian Robert Oeltjen and the pastor, the Rev. Samuel Boda, at 7 p.m.

The remainder of the service will be patterned after the "tenebrae" service of darkness, from early church days. Seven candles will be lit in the church, and as the seven last statements of the Lord are read, an acolyte will extinguish them one by one.

The church choir will sing "O Blessed Jesus, What Love Hast Thou Broken?" from Bach's St. Matthew Passion. Organist will be Oeltjen.

The annual Easter egg hunt will be held for Sunday school children, on the church grounds, Saturday from 1 to 2 p.m. The Sunday school staff of teachers will be in charge, with assistance from the church youth group.

Refreshments will be served in fellowship hall following the hunt. In case of rain, the egg hunt will be held indoors.

The festival of Easter will find members of the church making their annual trek to Wilson Park's ice skating pavilion for the annual Easter sunrise service at 6 a.m.

This year, St. John Lutheran Church will be the sponsoring congregation for that service. Its pastor will serve as liturgist, and John T. Severine Sr. will lead the brass ensemble in Easter fanfares and in accompanying singing by the worshippers.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Rex Spicer of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis. Commissioners of the Lutheran Bureau from St. John, are Harold E. Krohne Jr. and Thomas B. Roach. The Bureau has been conducting this annual service for almost 40 years.

Easter worship services, with Holy Communion, will be held at the church at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. June Barton will serve as guest organist and the church choir will sing the Easter anthem, "Jesus Shall Reign." The home pastor will deliver the Easter message. Sunday school and Bible classes will be held at 9:15 a.m.

Hot dog roast at GCC

Free entertainment and a hot dog roast will highlight a family celebration Saturday, May 2, at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College.

The event, open to the public, is part of the college's year-long 40th anniversary observance. The Granite City Campus is located at 4850 Maryville Road.

George Portz and the Friends of Bluegrass will perform in a free lawn concert from noon until 3 p.m.

A free hot dog roast, with hot dogs, chips, cookies and beverages, will be served until the food runs out.

A tentative schedule of events also includes:

- Roving artists, including a mime, balloon sculptor, caricaturist and a juggler from noon until 3 p.m.
- A campus open house from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. with exhibits, blood pressure screening, cardiopulmonary resuscitation, respiratory therapy and self defense.
- A bicycle safety check by the Granite City Optimist Club.
- A new Granite City Campus flag will be raised during a brief welcoming ceremony. Chancellor Bruce R. Wissore will speak.

Open house at Jewish Hospital nurse school

Men and women considering careers in nursing are invited to attend an open house at the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing on Wednesday, April 22, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Those attending will be able to meet with nursing school faculty and students to learn more about nursing education in a university medical center environment and career opportunities which exist because of the current nursing shortage. Prospective students may also tour the school, and refreshments will be served.

The school has educated more than 3,000 registered nurses since its first graduating class in 1960. Affiliated with a major teaching hospital in the Washington University Medical Center, the school offers both a 27-month diploma program and a four-year bachelor of science in nursing program in cooperation with the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

The school is at 306 S. Kingshighway, just north of U.S. 40.

going to state. He just put his mind to the task, Russ Baum said.

JIM ARENDELL, BELLEVILLE EAST: Another Lancers' tri-captain, Arendell capped his senior season with a state tournament appearance. He won the regional and took third place at the sectional.

JASON SLAYDEN, ROXANA: One of the area's best sophomore wrestlers, Slayden placed first in the regional and first in the Mississippi Valley Conference.

RICH WILSON, GRANITE CITY: A senior, Wilson had a 27-10 record and won both the regional and sectional. He also went to state as a sophomore.

CHAD HAMILTON, ROXANA: The younger brother of Shells All-area quarterback Scott Hamilton, Chad won Mississippi Valley Conference and regional titles. A sophomore, he came within an overtime decision of going to state and placed fourth at the sectional.

BRYANT CLARK, CAHOKIA: Clark's 41-2-1 record included regional and sectional championships.

TRACY MORRISON, GRANITE CITY: A potential state qualifier, Morrison was slowed by a knee injury in the second half of the season. He placed second at the regional, but was eliminated at the sectional.

ERIC ROBERSON, ROXANA: A three-time state qualifier, Roberson placed a senior, finishing fourth. He also qualified as a freshman and as a junior.

BILL NOUD, EDWARDSVILLE: A senior and a state qualifier, Noud was 31-4 with 13 pins. He was also selected the Tigers' MVP.

KRIS ARMSTRONG, ALTOHOF: One of the area's top sophomores, Armstrong had a 28-7 overall record and lost on a referee's decision in the second round at state. He beat senior Bob Scharf of Belleville West to win the regional title.

GREG REED, CAHOKIA: With a 43-4 record, he was the only Comanche to survive the first round in the individual portion of the state tourney. He helped Cahokia qualify for the team portion of the tourney.

MATT AVROMOVICH, ROXANA: A junior, Avromovich placed first in the Mississippi Valley Conference and first in the sectional.

PAUL BRANDT, GRANITE CITY: Brandt had a 33-5 record in his senior season and won both the regional and sectional. He still had a chance to place fifth at state going into the last matches of the tournament.

ERIC NICHOLS, BETHALTO: Despite a knee infection which put him in the hospital for a couple weeks, Nichols won the regional and placed fourth at the sectional, losing to Cahokia's John Goree by one point.

Nichols' season record was 32-5.

ANTONIO CURRENT, EAST ST. LOUIS: Current gave Barrett a tough match in the regional, losing 4-1 to Barrett in the final.

JOHN HILKEY, BELLEVILLE WEST: A shoulder injury hindered Hilkey at the state tournament, but he was still one of the area's most improved wrestlers. He credits his improvement to three factors: increased confidence, increased weight (he's a 245-pound senior) and an off-season weight training program.

JASON BENNETT, MASCOUETH: Bennett capped a fine junior season with a trip to the state wrestling tournament, where he split his two matches. Bennett finished 27-7.

Warriors up in stats; ranked 2nd in 1st poll

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Although the Warriors haven't been hurting for pitching, the weather has given them six off days in a row heading into today's conference game at home against Alton.

Rain forced the postponement of last Saturday's final two rounds of the Hazelwood Central Tournament, which will be played this Saturday, and Tuesday's game at Collinsville.

A few days off is nice, but the Warriors have had five consecutive complete games from Mike Krausz, Scott LeVault, Darin Hendrickson, Mike Georgeff and LeVault again, so weary arms shouldn't have been a big problem.

In the meantime, Granite City (7-2) has established itself as one of the area's powerhouses, being ranked second in the initial Suburban Journals high school baseball poll. Lafayette of St. Louis is the top-rated large school, while Southwestern Conference rivals Belleville East and Belleville West — both of whom the Warriors will play next week — are also in the poll.

Warrior players are also prominent in the first weekly statistics released by Sports Stats Inc. of St. Louis. No fewer than eight of Bob Stegmeier's players have their batting average over .400, with right fielder Rich Wilson leading the way at .560 (14 for 25) with 13 runs and eight RBI. Todd Hinterser is hitting an even .500 (9 for 18) with

Trojans 2nd at CM meet

The heavy rains early in the week washed away all of Tuesday's scheduled sporting events except one.

The Madison boys track team was able to run a meet in Bethalto, and the Trojans took second place in the five-team meet.

"We got a little surprise when we got there," said Trojan coach Charles Stepien. "We thought it was going to be a quad meet, but Gillespie came also."

The Miners not only came, but they won the meet with 92 points. Madison was next with 66, Southwestern had 47, Civic Memorial had 39 and Wood River had 22.

The Trojans did manage to come away with first place in three events. Avery Ware won the 800 meter run with a time of 2:13.4. Ted Kemp won the shot put with a throw of 43 feet and Howard Murray won the high jump with a leap of six feet.

Madison took second in the two-mile relay with a season-best time of 9:03.2. The team of Keith Smith, Michael Roberts, James Whitehead and Avery Ware was second to Civic Memorial's 9:00.7. Other seconds included Orlando McCarthy in the 110 high hurdles, 16.5 seconds; Angelo Cross in the shot put, 39.5; Jay Blakely in the long jump, 19-4; and Avery Ware in the triple jump, 33-5.

Trojan hurds included Blakely in the 100 meter dash, 11.46 (less than a tenth of a second off the winning time); McCarthy in the 300 low hurdles, 44.1; Smith in

He also received honors for making the NAIA All-Area Team, a District 20 plaque, the NAIA All-State Team and the CNAA All-American Team. In his two-year career at McKendree, Branding led the state with 18 shutouts. Coach Bob Cordes' team logged a 14-1 record in 1986-87. Branding, a senior, received an associate degree in radio and television from Florissant Valley Community College, where he played on a national championship team two years ago. Adamitis have nine each. Wilson and Moad have eight each and LeVault has six. Tim Hogan's nine stolen bases also rank him near the top. Hinterser, Wilson and Collins also rank in slugging percentage, while LeVault (3-1) is one of only two pitchers in the area with three wins. Mike Smith of Jerseyville is 3-0. His earned run average of 2.72 is topped by Hendrickson's (1-1) 2.54. Showing what kind of depth the team has, Patterson is now on the bench despite his .462 average. Hinterser has moved over to third while Jeff Grote has assumed the shortstop duties. "I think we might be a little better defensively that way," Stegemeier said. "Jeff is still trying to get it going with the bat, but he has bunted well for us a couple of times."
